

"Kanpai ,Cheers! with Tokyo people with commuter trains and marvelous view of Akihabara, electronics and anime stores palace

Period Jan. 01, 2018, Dec.31, 2018, (Reservation required)

venue: a venue with big windows, sandwiched by rail roads in Akihabara, central Tokyo.

Time Required: 1 - 2 hour

Place: 1-25-4, Kandasudacho, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo, Japan

Access : 10 min walk from JR Akihabara Sta.

Host: owner of Sake brewery, Toji, chief director of Sake brewer the host explores ginjo-shu and what distinguishes it from regular sake, how it is made, and its history and tradition. Taste their premium sake that cover the range from standard junmai-shu all the way up to the premium daiginjo classification.

Price (inc.tax) : 200,000 yen- / group

Minimum and maximum number of participant 2 - 20 persons

[Included in the price]

Sake Drink, Light snacks

Reservation

Please e-mail to nanaLLC/ Discovery Quinlo. We'll reply after confirmation.

Address : sake@7yume.org

Akihabara

Akihabara, also called Akiba after a former local shrine, is a district in central Tokyo that is famous for its many electronics shops. In more recent years, Akihabara has gained recognition as the center of Japan's otaku (diehard fan) culture, and many shops and establishments devoted to anime and manga are now dispersed among the electronic stores in the district. On Sundays, Chuo Dori, the main street through the district, is closed to car traffic from 18:00 to 18:00 (until 17:00 from October through March).

Akihabara has been undergoing major redevelopment over the years, including the renovation and expansion of Akihabara Station and the construction of new buildings in its proximity. Among these newly opened buildings were a huge Yodobashi electronics store and the AkihabaraCrossfield, a business complex with the aim of promoting Akihabara as a center for global electronics technology and trade.

